EDITORIAL

Time for Protest!

THE TIME HAS ARRIVED for some plain talk on Victoria's vanishing boat services.

In other columns today Mr. N. R. Crump, re-cently-appointed president of the CPR, tells Victoria that it may expect no help from his company in the current crisis, because of rigid schedules.

He goes on to suggest that Black Ball is to blame for this city's fix, because of its precipitate withdrawal from the Port Angeles run.

But is it? Let's look at the facts:

The CPR was running a profitable service into Nanaimo when Black Ball invaded the territory with its Kahloke run to Horseshoe Bay, West Vancouver. Black Ball was running a popular and profitable Chinook service into Port Angeles.

When Kahloke invaded the northern route, the CPR retaliated by entering a ship into the Port Angeles service

Obviously, a major struggle for the tourist business was joined. The "cream" was skimmed off both routes.

THEN THE CPR ANNOUNCED IT WAS bringing the fine new Princess of Vancouver into the Nanaimo service, to carry the fight a step Black Ball retaliated by having the Chinook transfer to Canadian registry—so that she could run between two Canadian ports—and re-converted for bow loading, so that she could enter the northern arena and checkmate the Vancouver.

This means that Nanaimo, a city one-tenth the size of the capital area, will have 21 sailings a day—10 via Black Ball and 11 via CPR.

Meanwhile Victoria, with half the population of this island clustered in its environs, is left with a lame-duck schedule which ensures that this city will be by-passed by thousands of visitors this summer. While CPR and Black Ball slug it out in the Nanaimo arena, we are left in the 80th row ringside.

OBVIOUSLY, THERE IS BUSINESS ENOUGH for one company in the Nanaimo route and another on the Port Angeles route. The thought of these companies splitting up the territories, and each settling for one profitable route (rather than two marginal ones) was apparently too horrible to contemplate

southern run on a moment's notice.

CPR's dereliction of duty seems to us even worse,

it has a long and rich allegiance to this island.
Under the old E. & N. land grants, it has had lush rewards from Vancouver Island. In his 1945 Forestry Report, Chief Justice Gordon Sloan estimated that the CPR had enjoyed returns on lumber alone of $25 millions, which he noted rather wryly "might be in-terpreted as reasonable compensation for the expenditure of $2.5 millions in building 82 miles of

NOBODY EXPECTS THESE COMPANIES TO OPERATE AT HEAVY LOSSES on a long-term basis. But the research experts of each company concede that there is money to be made on the Port Angeles run during the peak tourist months.

Thus, at the whim of CPR and Black Ball officials-who are doggedly determined to fight it out in Nanaimo-Victoria is relegated to the backwash, to observe from a distance this pointless death struggle.

Such treatment is an affront to the 150,000 citizens who inhabit the Victoria-Cowichan Valley

The Times intends to fight this ruling until a easure of justice is restored When a firm calls itself a "public carrier," it must have some regard to public duty and public service. This is particularly true in situations which have so long been held as monopolies.

We call on all citizens to join with the Chamber of Commerce and City Council to register their protest against this unjust treatment.

CPR Unable to Expand Port Angeles Service

Mayor Claude Harrison called an emergency meeting for 3 p.m. today following flat rejection by the CPR of pleas to step up ferry service to Port Angeles.

The mayor and Chamber of Commerce president Stuart

Good Act But It Has Flaws

PREMIER BENNETT CREATES one of the most serious among them P an unfortunate impression in his comment on British Columbia's forest management licence legisla-

All our government does is go by the act," he stated. "We didn't write the act. It was written by (Gordon) Gibson's own party. I'm not saying there is anything wrong with it. That's up to the

While his words do not quite express it in definite terms, Mr. Bennett conveys the idea that if the legislation is good, his administration merely following it. If it is bad, then it is the fault of the preceding Liberal government. The legislation cannot be divided into sharp black-and-white distinctions and Mr. Bennett knows that.

When it was introduced, it was brought forward with one cardinal design. That was to protect the forests, and to establish them on a sustained yield basis. The nature of the policy involved was sweeping. It could not be and was not perfect. But it was an excellent start

Obviously an act of such scope was bound to have flaws in it-flaws not apparent when the legislation was passed but revealed in the course of its application. Recognizing that fact, Chief Justice Sloan, whose earlier commission recommendations formed the basis for the legislation, another inquiry proposed ten years of the one he had originally The purpose of the present hearings is to follow out that recommendation.

The flaws are being revealed-by Mr. Gordon Gibson who protests the manner in which forest management licenses are being granted.

Mr. Bennett deserves full marks for ordering the inquiry and appointing the commission. He has con-formed to the public's will on that question. In the vernacular, the commission is now locating the "bugs" in the legislation and presumably will bring in recommendations get rid of them.

The present government has not shown wisdom, however, in failing to suspend allotment of more licenses and huge ones—until the "bugs' have been removed.

The act, in so far as it seeks the protection and preservation in per-petuity of British Columbia's vital timber resources, is good. It is more than that. It is essential.

On the other hand, it has its faults. And it is the duty of the administration, when the whole matter has been thoroughly investigated, to remove them. Chief Justice Sloan, who has alannounced that he expects major figures before him, may be relied upon to make his enquiry exhaustive. In this connection, the re-ported remarks of Premier Bennett are out of order. While the hearing is still in session, he is publicly asking when certain former Government officials are to be called to testify.

This surely is an unwarranted interference with the conduct of the hearing. The Chief Justice needs no prompting from the Premier or anyone else on which witnesses he should

Delicate and Difficult Task

BRITAIN'S CRIPPLING RAIL strike, added to an existing walkout of nearly 20,000 dock workers, sets a delicate and difficult task for the new Eden administration. It is serious enough to have caused a formal declaration of national emergency, which gives the Government certain powers to ensure that the people shall not be deprived of necessary food and services.

The use of such powers might be expected to react unfavorably on the Government so far as labor is concerned. Here, it might be charged, is Tory rightism wielding the heavy stick on labor. But it is not likely that such accusations will confront Sir Anthony Eden and his colleagues.

In the first place, labor itself has invoked the powers of national emergency. The Labor Government used the measure in 1948 when food supplies for Britain were endangered by a widespread dock strike. In the second place, the families themselves will, with the rest of the public, be the beneficiaries of any action taken.

The Government has the power to call out troops to man essential posts, and to requisition such transport and supplies as are needed. This action may well be found necessary before the struggle is ended, since the railway union, representing 70,000 engineers and firemen, declares it is "determined to see this and out again each day, the strike has serious consequences for dustry. Most food is transported by truck in Britain, and the few trains that are still running must give priority to milk tanker transport. But coal supplies are quickly depleted; coal cannot be moved from the mines and already several steel plants are laying off men due to partial shut-down.

Export trade will suffer, at a time when it is imperative to keep it at a high level. The tourist trade will be dealt a heavy blow; already it is reported that cancellations are pouring in and many visitors are trying to leave Britain.

The earlier words of a union of-ficial, to the effect that "the country will break before we do," did not sound a very promising note. Since the railways are nationalized and the country is the employer of the engineers, the struggle is literally strikers versus nation. But this draws a line of demarcation which few on either side of it will wish to

Since the strike obviously must end at some time, can not that end be accomplished before both nation and workers have been damaged, rather than before be injured by one section of that ough." community—a limit beyond which it should not be necessary for workers of transportation for the many thou- oto go to establish claims that are rea-

SOME WEEKS AGO A GROUP OF atmosphere in which science recog-Russian student editors intending to visit the United States on a Beyond that, it gives the I formal tour rebelled against U.S regulations which would have had them finger-printed as a part of the entry procedure.

More recently a group of Russian farm experts have made arrangements to visit America. Whether or not finger-printing has been waived, the Soviet agriculture leaders have indicated their decision to make the trip, and Russia has invited a party of Americans to return the courtesy by visiting the U.S.S.R.

The report makes encouraging reading for two reasons. It reveals a lessening of East-West hostility to the point at which people interested in particular subjects may exchange visits and take note of scientific developments in a partial return to that

Beyond that, it gives the Russians a chance to see and to appreciate North American agricultural progress-an opportunity to see some thing of excellence not made in the land of the Soviets

The West and the East have not yet reached the point where the intermingling of their peoples can be undertaken on a wholesale scale. There are still suspicions-and reasons for them—but on certain fronts views may be swapped and benefits enjoyed from that exchange. The visit of the agricultural experts is all the more interesting in view of news from Russia that its revolutionary genetics theory pro-pounded by Lysenko has been quietly dropped, and agriculture there is returning to fact.

Wrong Spirit

THERE IS SOMETHING PIquant in the Vancouver report of the clergyman whose telephone number was similar to that of a bootlegger and who kept receiving odd-hour calls for liquid refreshment.

The clergyman complained to the bootlegger and asked him to have his number changed. The bootlegger refused until a barrage of retalia-tory and profitless calls from the pastor's congregation wore him down and he appealed to the telephone company for a new number.

It is a little surprising that the story should not report remonstrances by the clergyman against

While I don't admire the French trick of calling everything by its date, even down to calling men by dates

"Fellow citizens, where is the man of 6 October? For all his promises he has joined that traitor, the man March and those poisonous villains of 13 February"... while this is going too far, I still think-English is pretty thin when it comes to what we might call the nomenclature of the calendar.

How stupid it was of our governing bodies, aided by our ambitious busybodies, to hunt round for an appropriate name for the Twenty fourth of May. Why not call it the twenty-fourth of May? This, of course, would involve celebrating it on the actual 24th, which would be a most reactionary thing to do in a world where people can only feel commemora-five on Mondays. Still, it is also reactionary to remember the past at all, isn't it? And why not have a day named the First of July, or, if necessary, July First? By this means we could dodge so neatly that vile word Dominion. Without seeming, as we now seem, evasive.

I must careful not to crush my client's hand, or mush it or pump it or half hand it, and I must remember not to shake hands with my right while using my left to rub the client's shoulder. I'll certainly try not to do that. Of course there are quite a few people who think that hand-shaking in North America is very much overdone anyhow, but I guess the people who think that are not the type to buy ouses. They are anti-social cynics, and

These diplomatic initiatives and the highly constructive actions have been the fruits of the restoration of British independence within the Atlantic Alliance.

There has been a corresponding development in this country. The allian has been made stronger and more ef-fective because, curiously enough, Presidence since the Republicans lost control of Congress. The reason for course, that almost all the Republican course, who were in control of Congress. The reason for this is, of of Congress during his first two years, had belonged to the anti-Eisenhower faction of the party. In the field of foreign affairs the Democratic chairmen are much closer to Eisenhower. As a result, the President has not in this Congress had to appeare his Republican opponents.

This has made it possible for the administration to support the mediation which British diplomacy has been prowhich British diplomacy has been providing. Many Americans who never have their speeches or their articles printed in the newspapers are grateful for this. They think that a good ally for this. They think that a good ally not only should stand by you when you are in trouble but should hold on to you when you are stumbling into trouble.

Among the commentators in Britain there have been differences of opinion as to whether in economic policy there was a big issue between the two parties.

Mr. Attlee and Mr. Gaitskell, it was said, were not in any particular hurry to transform Britain into a Socialist state. Nor were Sir Anthony Eden and Butler going to dismantle the welfare state.

At this distance, however, it did ap pear that the two parties really differed on the role that Britain can and should play in the economic organization of Europe

By its very nature a planned economy is in high degree isolationist and protectionist and nationalist, and it must look-with great suspicion upon, indeed it will probably oppose; measures like the reduction of tariff barriers, the removai of trade restrictions, and the convertibility of currencies.

Yet it is only by such liberal mess-ures as these that a wider European economic unity can be brought about. There are, I know, good Europeans like M. Jean Monnet, who deeply believe that there is no good future for Europe except by the founding of federal institutions which are above the national sovereignties of these separate nations. M. Monnet, and those who think as he does, may in the end be proved to have been true prophets as they are already proved to have been good citizens of Europe.

But the fact of the matter today is that Western Europe must include Great Britam, it must include Scandinavia, it must include Switzerland. These nations are not ready to be federated. Yet West. are not ready to be federated. Yet West-grn Europe is not too far away from the convertibility of currencies which is the equivalent of a common currency. SINGLE MARKET

Nor, it may be, is Western Europe too far away from a single market brought about by the suppression of tariffs and of trade restrictions within a European customs union. In this gen-eral direction Britain will lead, strongly seconded by Germany, and supported by the United States.

In this great unity the climate would certainly be favorable to more of the kind of integrated action which goes on in the coal and steel community. The climate might well be favorable to the extension of the functions of that com-munity to other things including, it might be, atomic energy.

It would do much good if before the Big Four meeting at the summit it were made clear that Western Europe is prepared to move effectively toward a com-mon market with a common currency. For that would give to Europe a kind of unity to which no one can object, from which no one would be likely to withdraw, into which it would be a privilege Copyright, 1955, N.Y. Herald Tribune Inc.

Like the rat and starling, it is outstanding for its adaptibility. It is up-and-coming, and when a species is resurgent in this way neither hell-fire nor gunpowder will stop it. That's why I think myxomatosis will fail. An introduced species is going to be damaging as it is up-and-coming, or adaptable or resurgent or what you will. Natural enemies, climate and such things will either eliminate or keep within bounds the average alien, but the up-andcoming type will triumph over all, and the rat is the best example of this. —Dr. Maurice Burton, zoologist, naturalist and

My personal reaction to the two Queen portraits was that the one by Elwes makes her look scraggy and scrawny and it has little appeal at all, while the Annigoni painting is far and away the best that has ever been done of her. This, apparently, is also the general opinion. Chats with various viewers confirmed this.

Also I sat for twenty minutes or so at a plan where I could see both portraits in the distance and always those doing their rounds of the exhibition would pass on from the Elwes after a brief look and go on to the Annigoni, there to join the crowd always around it. YOUR HEALTH

A Better Way to Live

Dr. George S. Stevenson, of the U.S. lation for Mental Health, recently made a number of suggestions for all of us. He said first we should learn to have a tolerant, easy-going attitude toward ourselves as well as toward others. There are too many people in this world who are too fury, too crabbed, and too inclined to try to boss the lives of those about them.

Life could be so much easier for all of us if, wherever possible, we would let the other fellow go his own way. Even with our chil-dren, we would often do better if we would let them have their own way, grant-ing that they weren't going to do something dangerous-ly wrong. Often it is best to let the child learn his lesson through sad experience.

The next thing Dr. Stevenson uggested was that each of us try to form a proper estimate of his own abilities. Some people under-Alvarez estinate their abilities and, as a result, get an inferiority complex which hounds them all their days. Others overestimate their importance and, as a result, are cocky and smart-alecky. The wise man stays somewhere in between these two extremes. Like a child, he may admit to himself that he is pretty good, but still he knows that if he were to work harder, or if he had a better brain or more energy he could do much better. He also knows that he has some weaknesses. ...irdly, a person should keep self-respect.

Among my father's people the Spanish, the commonest word of condemnation for a man is to 1 ? effect that he has no shame. I think the Spanish are right: a man who has no

FACE DISAPPOINTMENTS

Fourth, all of us should early learn to take life's disappointments in our stride, Certainly, there is no use in grousing about a disappointment. A man who can't stand a disappointment will sometimes take to the bottle, which is likely to bring him to ruina-tion. Another great thing in this world is not to t° out our discomforts on the people around us. As ${}^{\intercal}$ have often said, one of the most wonderful things about my mountain club is the great unwritten law to the effect that no matter how cold and wet and un-comfortable the day, no one must ever think of mentioning his discomfort to his neighbor.

other great sign of sanity is respect Another great sign of sanity is respect for the interests and comforts of others. Many years ago when I had small children in the home, one of the main things I tried to teach them was respect for the comfort of those about them. Sixthly, we should all try to learn to like most people, and to trust those about us when we haven't any good reason not to trust them. I often think that if I were a sort of Kadi of Arabian Nights, going around to all the medical schools of this country, I would turn down all those candidates for a medical training who, obviously, did not like people. A man who does not like people cannot make an ideal physician; certainly he will not be a kindly physician. So much of the discomfort in this world is due to the fact that many people don't like other people. I find I can like most persons: nearly every one has a good side if I can find it. Even a tough gangster can be very kind to his mother and his children. Some of the most hard-boiled businessmen I have had as patients have been very considerate of my time, and very kind to me. Many a time, when an assistant has asked me how I could be so friendly with some "tough old scoundrel" I would say, "Inside of him there is a sweet, gentle person; you, unluckily, did not see it."

BARELY TAKEN IN

I generally trust people, and I am glad am made that way. Very rarely am I taken n. Mc t people react honestly when one treats them with obvious trust. Another thing to do in this world is to accept one's responsibilities, and to do something about problem as quickly as it comes up, One of the greatest things many persons need 'learn is the art of making quick decisions and then abiding by them. When I make a decision I am done with the problem, unless some new facts in regard to it can be brought before me. I am not like the woman who buys a dress and then promptly takes it back to the store.

Every one of us should plan ahead somewhat, setting up some good goals to work toward. One of the most terrible things about the psychopathic delinquent lad is that he has absolutely no goal for the future; he has no ambition to improve himself, he has no idea of marrying a nice girl and settling down to build a home; he has no idea of working his way up the ladder in some pro-fession or big business; he does just what pleases him, at the time, If he feels like stealing a car and driving around town, he

LUTHER TO MEET LOU IN MAT TITLE BOUT

Luther Lindsay, one of the best-piled stacks of muscles to grace local wrestling rings in years, will meet Lou Thesz here in the near future for the heavyweight championship of the world. Lindsay qualified for this signal honor Tuesday night at Memorial Arena when he survived a murderous tournament of champions elimination contest. The powerful Negro, a former All-American football player, beat Thor Hagen in an extra-fall bout in the first round of the eliminations and then conquered Firpo Zybyszko in the final.

Notes from a dirty shirt cuff: Part one—for bowlers only, but nevertheless a tip-off on what makes champions champions. So how would you feel if you were down to the last frame of the Masters' tournament—the final out of the world series of the sport, so to speak—and all you needed for victory was two strikes? Not to mention the $300 extra in prize money that could be yours, and likely a few thousand more in per-sonal appearances—just for those two strikes!

Two strikes are hard enough to get at any time (that's but that's the situation that faced Buzz

Fazio in the Masters. Of course we wouldn't be telling you all this if Fazio didn't get them and win his match with Joe Kristoff, Which he did. But let's go back a couple of games, for another miracle of sorts. The same Fazio eyed the pins, two of them, the dreaded 7.10 split. This is like the four-minute mile. It's practically impossible. He was beaten when he threw the ball, but seconds later he was the winner—by six pins. Of this stuff champions are made; this and a 204 Walker average for 28 games.

And think ye that bowling isn't big business Revise your estimates, neighbors. For word is that Anheuser Busch of St. Louis ('hat's "Budweiser" to patrons of the tap) is sponsoring its tenpin team next year to the tune of $50,000. Three of the fellows, including Don Carter, who showed here last year, must work in the brewery, poor chaps, to help earn that dough.

Their main job? To conduct three bowling clinics weekly. That should be hard to take; but really,

Part two-hockey, out of cast as it may be with the Shamrocks frollicking about in first place in the Intercity Lacroses League as they are.

Down east, ex-Cougars are in the news. Ross Lowe and Ernie Roche have been drafted. While out here, those who don't like lacrosse, and there are some (why we don't know), speak in tribute of the new rules adopted by the WHL for Yes, overtime hockey returns or, to the modern-day fan, becomes a reality this next season.

That is, if the Cougars and the Memorial Arena commission can reach an agreement on the Memorial Arena lease. which they should—each needing the other as they do, like doughnuts need coffee.

City fans should like it, for although overtime is something they've never really had, they've had a taste of it in playoff competition, that small smattering of thrills still hanging over down through the years.

A Moment or Two of Memories

For example, probably the most famous series in the present-day life of the Cougars centres about the Portland-

Victoria semifinal four years ago.

Harold Hopper, who never ever afterwards, or before, for that matter, flirted with glory as he did here, was the particular villain of the script. For it was Hopper, twice running. tho sank the Cougars, in overtime, in the openers of that

And those who were there will always recall the near riot that threatened Queen's Park Arena the night that Amy Dufault broke away from protesting Cougars to fire an overne goal past Jerry Cotnoir. And rightly so that evening did the Cougars seem to have the right to protest. conds before Dufault connected, the Cougars' Les Hickey had fired a sizzler that appeared to hit the hemp and bounce out in front. The New Westminster goal judge who ruled against Hickey will never forget that evening. That's certain.

When last seen he was southward bound, three rows at a time, with his protective wire screen badly bent by Cougar

Yes, overtime will be welcome-if only to provide a new nsity to the battle.

And we're just as certain that the WHL's rescinding of the delayed penalty rule and the adoption of the new edict whereby a penalized player may return to the ice upon a goal being scored during his absence will add a new zest to

Should not the Cougars and the Part three—lacrosse. Oh. Oh, we're getting ahead of our-selves; the Irish host the Indians tonight, and if the big green team is to retain the honor roll this season, they can look no further than to Jake Proctor and his tribe as the key to success. Jake always makes it tough, the Rocks having lost to no other club this season. See you there.

Q.—A dispatch from London in the Daily Times Monday reported Sir Winston Churchill's lion was dying of old age. Flow old is he?—I.B.A.

A.—Rota's age was stated to be 17 years. If his age is correctly known, he is dying far short of the life span of many lions. It is generally accepted in zoology and natu-ral history that lions in the wild state which are not killed in violent combat may live to 30 and even 40 years. It is not stated whether Rota, an African male lion, was born in Africar male ilon, was born in captivity. If so, he spent all his life in that state, and if not, he was a captive for a large part of it, for he was presented as a gift to Church-ill in 1943, when the war leadership of Churchill was at its height. Zoologists state captivity is recognized as a factor in shortening the life of the great carnivores, which are in their natural environment only when they are wild.

Convertible Sun Suits Have More Than One Use By PENNY SAVER

It seems that most of the clothes made for summer wear this year have big features that are constantly amazing me. For instance, I saw a playsuit set in a gay Mexican print cotton and I stopped to ask the sales girl about, "Yes," she said "it's a very versatile outfit. It can be worn not only for the sun, but also for pyjamas." What pext? They're made of a ripply type of cotton that needs no ironing, and they're crease-resistant. The pedal pusher pants are in a warm cream color, trimmed with the same Mexican print as the cover-up jacket-blouse. The blouse has short sleeves and a button front. There's another piece to the outfit, too. It's a midriff blouse with off-the-shoulder sleeves. How much for the whole set? Just $8.95.

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, JUNE 1, 1955-28 PAGES

Time for Protest!

THE TIME HAS ARRIVED for some plain talk on Victoria's vanishing boat services.

In other columns today Mr. N. R. Crump, re-cently-appointed president of the CPR, tells Victoria that it may expect no help from his company in the current crisis, because of rigid schedules.

He goes on to suggest that Black Ball is to blame for this city's fix, because of its precipitate withdrawal from the Port Angeles run.

But is it? Let's look at the facts: The CPR was running a profitable service into Nanaimo when Black Ball invaded the territory with its Kahloke run to Horseshoe Bay, West Vancouver. Black Ball was running a popular and profitable Chinook service into Port Angeles. When Kahloke invaded the northern route, the CPR retaliated by entering a ship into the Port Angeles service.

Obviously, a major struggle for the tourist business was joined.

The "cream" was skimmed off both routes.

THEN THE CPR ANNOUNCED IT WAS bringing the fine new Princess of Vancouver into the Nanaimo service, to carry the fight a step further.

Black Ball retaliated by having the Chinook transfer to Canadian registry - so that she could run between two Canadian ports — and re-converted for bow loading, so that she could enter the northern arena and checkmate the Vancouver.

This means that Nanaimo, a city one-tenth the size of the capital area, will have 21 sailings a day— 10 via Black Ball and 11 via CPR. Meanwhile Victoria, with half the population of this island clustered in its environs, is left with a lame-duck schedule which ensures that this city will be by-passed by thousands of visitors this summer.

While CPR and Black Ball slug it out in the Nanaimo arena, we are left in the 80th row ringside.

OBVIOUSLY, THERE IS BUSINESS ENOUGH for one company in the Nanaimo route and another on the Port Angeles route. The thought of these companies splitting up the territories, and each settling for one profitable route (rather than two marginal ones) was apparently too horrible to contemplate.

Black Ball must be censured for quitting the southern run on a moment's notice. CPR's dereliction of duty seems to us even worse, for it has a long and rich allegiance to this island. Under the old E. & N. land grants, it has had lush rewards from Vancouver Island. In his 1945 Forestry Report, Chief Justice Gordon Sloan estimated that the CPR had enjoyed returns on lumber alone of $25 millions, which he noted rather wryly "might be interpreted as reasonable compensation for the expenditure of $2.5 millions in building 82 miles of railway.'

NOBODY EXPECTS THESE COMPANIES TO OPERATE AT HEAVY LOSSES on a long-term basis. But the research experts of each company concede that there is money to be made on the Port Angeles run during the peak tourist months

Thus, at the whim of CPR and Black Ball offi--who are doggedly determined to fight it out in Nanaimo-Victoria is relegated to the backwash, to observe from a distance this pointless death

Such treatment is an affront to the 150,000 The Times intends to fight this ruling until a measure of justice is restored.

When a firm calls itself a "public carrier," it must have some regard to public duty and public service. This is particularly true in situations which have so long been held as monopolies.

We call on all citizens to join with the Chamber Commerce and City Council to register their protest against this unjust treatment.

CPR Unable to Expand Port Angeles Service

Mayor Claude Harrison called an emergency meeting for 3 p.m. today following flat rejection by the CPR of pleas to step up ferry service to Port Angeles.

The mayor and Chamber of commerce president Stuart Keate received telegrams from WASHINGTON N. R. Crump, president of the CPR, stating the company cannot make any re-arrangement of chedules this summer.

The mayor and Mr. Keate representing a cross-section of Vancouver Island, businessmen, had wired Mr. Crump asking at least one extra round trip per day, utilizing the day steamer on the triangle service, which lies over here for two hours prior to the Seattle sailing.

The mayor invited all interested parties, including businessmen, resort owners, and city ouncil members, to attend the scheduled meeting, where Mr. Crump's telegrams were to be discussed.

The mayor also said he would bring up the terms of union. with special reference to clause 4: "The Dominion will provide an efficient mail service, fortnightly by steam communication, between Victoria and San Francisco, and twice a week between Victoria and Olympia;

Time for Protest!

THE TIME HAS ARRIVED for some plain talk on Victoria's vanishing boat services.

In other columns today Mr. N. R. Crump, re-cently-appointed president of the CPR, tells Victoria that it may expect no help from his company in the current crisis, because of rigid schedules.

He goes on to suggest that Black Ball is to blame for this city's fix, because of its precipitate withdrawal from the Port Angeles run.

But is it? Let's look at the facts:

The CPR was running a profitable service into Nanaimo when Black Ball invaded the territory with its Kahloke run to Horseshoe Bay, West Vancouver. Black Ball was running a popular and profitable Chinook service into Port Angeles.

When Kahloke invaded the northern route, the CPR retaliated by entering a ship into the Port Angeles service.

Obviously, a major struggle for the tourist business was joined. The "cream" was skimmed off both routes.

THEN THE CPR ANNOUNCED IT WAS bringing the fine new Princess of Vancouver into the Nanaimo service, to carry the fight a step

Black Ball retaliated by having the Chinook transfer to Canadian registry - so that she could run between two Canadian ports — and re-converted for bow loading, so that she could enter the northern arena and checkmate the Vancouver. This means that Nanaimo, a city one-tenth the size of the capital area, will have 21 sailings a day—

10 via Black Ball and 11 via CPR. Meanwhile Victoria, with half the population of this island clustered in its environs, is left with a lame-duck schedule which ensures that this city will be by-passed by thousands of visitors this summer. While CPR and Black Ball slug it out in the Nanaimo arena, we are left in the 80th row ringside.

OBVIOUSLY, THERE IS BUSINESS ENOUGH for one company in the Nanaimo route and another on the Port Angeles route. The thought of these companies splitting up the territories, and each settling for one profitable route (rather than two marginal ones) was apparently too horrible to con-

Black Ball must be censured for quitting the southern run on a moment's notice.

CPR's dereliction of duty seems to us even worse, for it has a long and rich allegiance to this island.

Under the old E. & N. land grants, it has had lush ewards from Vancouver Island. In his 1945 Forestry Report, Chief Justice Gordon Sloan estimated that CPR had enjoyed returns on lumber alone of $25 millions, which he noted rather wryly "might be in-terpreted as reasonable compensation for the exditure of $2.5 millions in building 82 miles of

NOBODY EXPECTS THESE COMPANIES TO OPERATE AT HEAVY LOSSES on a long-term basis. But the research experts of each company concede that there is money to be made on the Port Angeles run during the peak tourist months.

Thus, at the whim of CPR and Black Ball officials-who are doggedly determined to fight it out in Nanaimo-Victoria is relegated to the backwash to observe from a distance this pointiess death

Such treatment is an affront to the 150,000 citizens who inhabit the Victoria-Cowichan Valley area.

The Times intends to fight this ruling until a measure of justice is restored.

When a firm calls itself a "public carrier," it must have some regard to public duty and public service. This is particularly true in situations which have so long been held as monopolies

We call on all citizens to join with the Chamber of Commerce and City Council to register their protest against this unjust treatment.

Looks like th' hospitals are 'goin' t' hev t' perform an ectomy on their economy.

CPR 'No' Stirs Civic Action on Strait Run

City Council members, businessmen, resort owners and other interested citizens went into an emergency meeting at City Hall at 3 this afternoon to decide what action can be taken to meet the reduction of ferry service to Port Angeles resulting from withdrawal of the Black Ball vessel Chinook.

The meeting was hurriedly called this morning by Mayor Claude Harrison after N. R. Crump, president of CPR, had wired both the mayor and Stuart Keate, Chamber of Commerce president, that the CPR's beats are all committed for the boats are all committed for the summer, and it cannot do any. CUT YOUR STAFF HOSPITALS TOLD

Health Minister Martin Insists Administrators Can 'Hold the Line'

Health Minister Eric Martin suggested today B.C. hospital administrators cut staffs to keep within the government's hold-the-line order on hospital budgets.

Mr. Martin made the suggestion following an "ultimatum" to the government that it meet 1955 wage increases or face immediate cuts in staff and services.

The ultimatum was made by the executive of the B.C. Hoscienses granted over the 1954 pitals Association, meeting in Vancouver Tuesday in an emergency session. The executive comes from the provincial gov-

He repeated earlier statements that the unions have said higher wages would result in higher efficiency and lower costs.
